

If You Think The Water Is Cold: A Cancer Survivors Story (The Sun Island Series Book 1)

For many, the diagnosis of cancer begins the last chapter; but for Tan Siew Khim, it led to an entirely new book. To face cancer, you need the help of both science and nature, as well as the support of family and friends. But as Siew Khim knows, a cancer patient must also rely on her own inner strengths a strong spirit and a positive attitude. After facing her initial fears and conquering her reaction to leave this world quietly, Siew Khim decided that she wasn't ready to quit just yet. She embraced the different forms of medicine and treatments available. When she was invited to Sun Island Shanghai to convalesce, Siew Khim discovered the power of wellness activities such as mindfulness meditation and laughter yoga. This is where she met and inspired her biographer, Lee Sok Lian. Siew Khim's uplifting story of recovery isn't merely a tale of getting back what she once had, but of moving forward to create an expansive new life. Learning the English language at the age of fifty, along with a myriad of other skills such as swimming, dancing, yoga, laughter yoga and photography, Siew Khim saw her life growing rather than ending. Her story will inspire you to live likewise.
