

All most everyone in society has served or a prison like sentence working for their insane boss. We sometimes question how can our managers be so inhumane and treat us like crap. But it's even scarier when five minutes later the same maniac who just ripped a strip off us in the boardroom buys us lunch. We can all unanimously agree that the workplace would be dramatically improved if our employers practiced what they preached and truly left their problems at the door. After spending a couple decades working for many bipolar managers, being fired and rehired within a two hour time span, witnessing the most bizarre behavior and personality types. I decided to go public and entertain the world with tales of My Bipolar Manager. I'm confident that you can personally relate to or know someone who can relate to the characters portrayed in this book!
