

MY CRAZY YEAR IN THE MARIJUANA BUSINESS: How I Went from Living in a Tent To Making $30,000 a Month

My Year in the Marijuana Business is the story of a man who had hit rock bottom and was living in a tent, someone else's tent, in the northern California area known as the Emerald Triangle. This was and still is the heart of the marijuana industry in the U.S. Earning $50 a week, taking care of an old man's large flower garden, he eventually started working for different marijuana growers doing every job in the processing of pot. He watered and cultivated the plants; dried, trimmed and packaged them, and then acted as security for the drivers, or transporters. He finally ended up as a driver, delivering hundreds of pounds of top grade marijuana across the country, earning $30,000 a month, until it all came to an abrupt end.
