

The Vintage Eyes Guide To Fashion in the 20th Century

What defined fashion in the 20th Century? Was it Parisian fashion houses making all the necessary decisions on what we should wear? Well, not quite. Actually what defined the clothes we wore was society and the shift patterns within it. The dictation of what was fashionable was the direct result of the state of the world from the wheels that turned it. When things were good, hems went up, when they were bad, hems went down. But what about the cultures and sub cultures which oozed into it from the young and where did their inspiration really come from? The Vintage Eye travels through 20th Century and looks at fashion from every angle; where it came from, why and how to wear it today in this new culture: vintage.
